Note - In these abstracts, the children are given in the order in which they are named in the will : this is often not in the order of birth : certain children receive specif - ic bequests : quite often, a list of all the children appear later in a will, giving what is usually the order of birth : and in such cases, I have numbered each child as they so appear, without duplicating the list : as in the above will of Thomas Reeve : the date of PROBATE of these wills has been inserted, as my abstract shows it. Often the daughters are married, but the testator says nothing about this, merely giving the name of his daugh - ter as " Sarah " or " Jane " :in such cases, I have en - deavored to indicate this as " Sarah _ _ _ _ " or " Jane _ _ _ _ ": often a will names a daughter as " Mary Jones " or as " Anne wife of _ _ _ _ _ Brown ".

Note - The previous and following abstracts of wills are only a portion of those already finished : more will follow in the next volume, some time in the future. Abstracts of a large number of the Administrations have been completed and will be published in this series.

A large number of the original Petitions for Probate : and the original Petitions for administration : have been abstracted. These original papers, seldom on record in the Libers, are in some respects even more important than the wills, as they contain the full date and place of death in most cases, and the names of the next of kin, in most cases with the actual relationship to the Testator, with the places of residence of each. Often a will names but two children, or says "All my children"(without naming any one): while the Petition will give the names of all the children, in many cases, nine or ten, or more. Often the Petition only says " next of kin ": while the will tells the relationship : or vice-versa.

Note - To thoroughly exhaust all the records in any New York State, Surrogate Office, one must examine, all these records : 1. Index of Wills
2. Index of Administrations
3. Index of Guardians
4. The original petitions for administrations
5. The original petitions for probate

One must also take into account all the possible peculiar spellings of every Family name.
Several wills in this list are not indexed in the individual volume index, but possibly may be found in the larger and later General Index : but see first the note on page three of volume one of my Suffolk County, New York, Surrogate Records. It is to be presumed that the OFFICE Index is complete and accurate : but a number of instances have been found of wills omitted from the said index : so one would expect to find other similar omissions. The indexes are usually reliable and complete.
